

Kalama Green Mt. Washington State Rules

Kalama Site Access Information

Longview Fiber has sent the (Washington State Mineral Council) WSMC a set of rules to be followed while on their property. This applies to the Kalama area as well as the rest of Longview Fiber land.

Longview Fiber Rules While On Company Property

- 1.) All members will enter through the gate at the same time. Their names and vehicle license numbers will be recorded. They will then be signed out as they leave the property.
- 2.) Vehicles must stay on rocked roads only.
- 3.) No Digging in any creeks or channels, whether they contain water or are dry. No dirt is to be placed so that it may get in to the creeks.
- 4.) No Fires at any time or for any reason.
- 5.) No Smoking during travel or while working.
- 6.) No camping.
- 7.) Anyone found digging in a Creek will be escorted off the property.

Please be sure to follow these simple rules while on Longview Fiber property. Doing so will help ensure rockhounds' continued access

Update: 11/18/03

Longview Fiber has provided the WSMC with some additional guidelines for access to the Kalama area:

For safety reasons, Longview Fiber requests all rock hounding recreational users of the Kalama Green Mountain area to get permission before going onto their property. In the summertime they generally close their land to recreational use due to FIRE hazard. Also they may be working the land and at that time there would be no access to the general public. All who take a group must have permission from Denny Mohan of Longview Fiber.
